Molecular genetics, is a branch of genetics that focuses ...

Genes, are the basic units, of heredity, and determine the ...

A genetic mutation is a permanent change in the DNA sequence of a gene Mutations can be beneficial, neutral, or harmful, and they are the source of genetic diversity in populations and evolution.

PCR is a laboratory technique used to amplify a specific segment of DNA, making it easier to study or analyze. It is widely used in various applications, such as DNA sequencing, gene cloning, and diagnostic testing.

Gene Expression: Gene expression refers to the process by which information from a gene is used to synthesize a functional gene product, such as a protein or RNA molecule.

Genetic variation refers to the differences in the DNA sequences among individuals of the same species. It is a fundamental aspect of evolution and plays a role in determining an individual's traits and susceptibility to diseases.

Genotyping: Genotyping is the process of determining the genetic makeup of an

Transcription: Transcription is the process by which an RNA molecule is synthesized from a DNA template, producing messenger RNA (mRNA) that carries the genetic information from the nucleus to the cytoplasm for protein synthesis.

Gene Silencing: Gene silencing is the suppression or downregulation of gene expression, preventing a particular gene from being transcribed into RNA or translated Genetic Screening: Genetic screening involves testing individuals for specific genetic conditions or predispositions to identify potential risks or provide personalized medical care.

Genetic counseling is a process that provides information and support to individuals and families regarding the risk of inherited genetic conditions and the options available for managing or preventing them.

Genetic Linkage: Genetic linkage refers to the tendency of certain genes located close together on the same chromosome to be inherited together during reproduction. Genetic linkage is the basis of genetic mapping.

Gene Expression Profiling: Gene expression profiling involves analyzing the activity of multiple genes

Restriction Enzyme: A restriction enzyme is an enzyme that recognizes specific DNA sequences and cuts the DNA at or near these recognition sites. Restriction enzymes are

Gene Amplification: Gene amplification is the increase in the number of copies of a specific gene or DNA sequence within a cell. Amplification is a common phenomenon in Genomic medicine is an approach to medical practice that uses information about an individual's genes and genetic variations to guide personalized healthcare and disease management.

Gene drive is a genetic phenomenon that can increase the likelihood of a specific gene or genetic modification being inherited and spread through populations. It has implications for controlling disease vectors and invasive species.

A knockout mouse is a laboratory mouse in which a specific gene has been intentionally inactivated or "knocked out." These mice are used in research to study the function of genes and their role in disease.

RNA Interference (RNAi): RNA interference is a biological process where small RNA molecules (siRNA or miRNA) regulate the expression of specific genes by targeting complementary ... maintaining the integrity of the genetic material.

DNA Profiling: DNA profiling, also known as DNA fingerprinting, is a technique used to analyze an individual's DNA to identify unique genetic markers for forensic
